

Dream Weaving About Your Vision as a Practitioner

Think of something you'd like to create in your life as a Practitioner. What does it look like? Feel like? Sound like? Where are you? Are there others around you?

Now that ideas of your vision are emerging, use your spiritual practice to build your vision. Practice discernment with your vision as the criteria.

- Ask, "Does this serve my vision?" If you hear, "Not exactly, but . . ." then the answer is no.
- Try interpreting all experiences as being in service to your vision. It's part of building your vision. (Getting fired from a job could be serving your vision. Don't waste time in the opinions about it. See the good in it.)
- Ask yourself, "What am I willing to do right now to be in service to my vision?" Then say yes to what appears.
- Ask, "What's my next step in my growth? What action am I willing to take?"
- Your vision will move you into situations where you will stretch and grow the most.
- "You don't need to see the whole staircase, just the first step." Martin Luther King, Jr.
