May Newsletter from Creative Kids at Home by Christine Nicholls

The new project for this month, is an idea to create your own treasure balls. Kids love making these messy surprises. They would be great for hiding clues in a Treasure Hunt, or could be a Birthday Party Activity. The supplies are inexpensive, but you will need to save some used coffee grinds for a few days (or get a large supply from your local coffee shop).

Our visitors have been sending in great ideas for children to make their own bubble wands. You will find lots of simple ideas, and some unique wands that will keep the kids busy with bubbles of all sizes.

Teacher's Gifts

It's getting close to the end of the school year for most children. Check out these ideas for teacher's gifts that your children came make, and their teachers will appreciate!

Send in your ideas for gifts children can make for Teacher's Gifts and Father's Day ideas. We'll post a selection on the website to share with other visitors. If you have a photo, we would like to include it too! Let us know if you would like to be identified with your idea. Send your ideas to: Creative Kids at Home info@creativekidsathome.com.

Don't forget to check out the Activity Library for lots of kids crafts and activities.

Shipping of Gift Subscriptions

If your child has a gift subscription from Creative Kids at Home and is expecting a May craft package, they have been shipped and should have arrived by the end of this week.

Give your child a birthday party they will remember as the greatest party ever and you'll have as much fun as the kids! You will find four great theme parties for children from 6 to 13, everything from detective mysteries to survivor themes. There's even a Harry Potter birthday party. I couldn't believe how inexpensive are these party plans, and you get all the ideas, supply lists, loot bag ideas. Everything you need to hold a fabulous party.

Zoobooks

Your child will love to get their own mail-especially when the mail could contain anything from a wild-eyed tiger to a cuddly koala. Each and every month, watch your budding animal-lover turn away from the television and eagerly curl up on the couch to make new discoveries about another exciting animal. Be prepared for a lot of "Mom, Dad-did you know..?" Each Issue spotlights a different animal... collect all 59!. Brilliantly photographed, simply written, advertising-free! Interactive games in each issue to make learning stick! Endless subjects for school reports for all grades, all ages!
